

Helen Bumpus Gallery

OLD COLONY MEMORIAL, Plymouth, Mass.

Children's art displayed

The third annual exhibition of Children's Art is being shown in the Helen Bumpus Gallery of the Duxbury Free Library through Jan. 6.

Featuring the art of Duxbury children from grades one through eight, the exhibition is combined with a 20-foot Christmas tree in the library rotunda. Children and young people have been invited to decorate the tree with ornaments they have made.

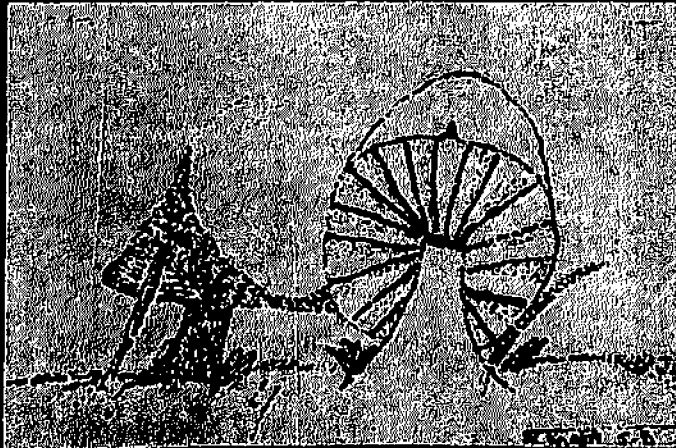

Students of Jeanne Lagoy, who supervises art in the Duxbury elementary schools, are represented in the show by: Victor Altieri, Richard Cattell, Lisa Doyle, Jim Feeley, Eddie French, Jonathan MacCallum, Randy Mello, Peter Nightengale, Christine Stokes, and Pam Wakefield.

Students of Candace Gabbard, who teaches elementary and middle school art, are: Mary Ann Caleski, Jeffrey Chandler, Tom Ferguson, Greg Heath, Peter Kosak, Elwin McCarthy, Charles McCormick, Elizabeth Marshall, and Stephanie Williams.

Geri Galvin and Scott O'Brien, whose work is being shown, are students of Georgia Blackmore.

Middle School students taught by Alice Ohannessian are: Scott Barclay, William Bradford, Beth Brodie, Jim Button, Jodi Christopher, Marcia Cowing, Doug Fulmer, Jonathan Killian, Kathy Knight, Robert Krafft, Steven Levesque, Leslie Lormer, James Lovejoy, Jill McCulloch, Stephanie Maguire, Marilyn O'Neil, Wendy Pierce, Susan Rodegast, Amy Saunders, and Amie Stewart.

Children taught in the art classes in the library whose work is on exhibit are: Robert Alexander, Mary Burchill, Sheila Burleigh, Christopher Connors, Scott Emerson, Elizabeth Green, Julianna Hatfield, Jamie Leitz, Patricia McHugh, Claire Morelli, Jennifer Neubauer, Susie Ramsay, Sherryl Sexton, Tami Simmons, Cattina Thmistokleous, Denise Vautrain, Michele Vautrain, and Sarah Whiting. Their teacher was Gay Youse, who is in charge of planning, selecting and hanging exhibitions for the Helen Bumpus Gallery.

"MUSHROOM MATES" — An India ink rendering of forest mushrooms by Kathy Knight, 13, is part of the annual showing of children's works at the Bumpus Gallery, Duxbury Free Library, through January. Works by children from 8 to 14 are on exhibit during regular library hours.